

Hannah Greenstreet

Saudade Aubade

the morning after I'm searching for a word amongst the wine stained lips and glasses, teabags gone furry in the heat,
an empty bookshelf
what remains

three years in boxes.
I want to take this moment and fossilise it.

forgotten quotations unpeel from the wall glide down.